

Workshop on Helping Elderly with Swallowing Disorders

Swallowing Disorders can lead to serious health consequences in the elderly if not managed well. RASSW is organizing a workshop to train healthcare workers to be better equipped with both the knowledge and skills in managing the elderly.

This introductory workshop includes both lectures and interactive games. At the end of the workshop, participants will understand:

- The cause and consequences of swallowing disorders
- How to identify patients with swallowing disorders
- Treatment options available
- How to care for and support patients with swallowing disorders

All participants will receive a certificate of attendance. Refreshment will be provided.
